

Configuring GVC BB0040 as a Router

Port mapping is an optional feature; this is when you want something like a web server or mail server to be accessible from the outside. This example is for both a web server and mail server on different machines.

